

An Undergraduate Course in Earthquakes for Non-Majors

I am writing a book entitled Living with Earthquakes in California, to be published by the Oregon State University Press. This follows an earlier book, Living with Earthquakes in the Pacific Northwest (1998). The publisher's deadline is June, 2000.

I am on track for completing the manuscript. SCEC funds will be used for illustration preparation and for field expenses for interviews in early 2000.

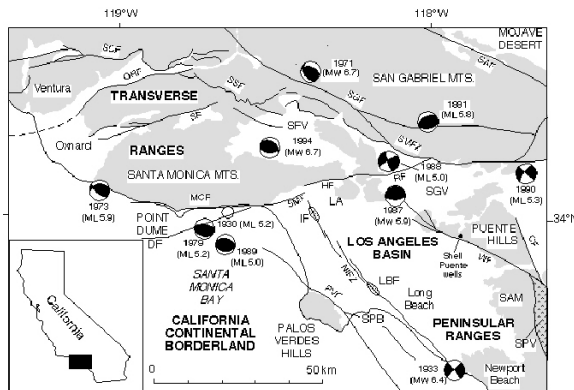

Fig. 1: Index map showing the triple join between the Whittier, Chino, and Elsinore faults and a possible join between the Santa Monica, Dume, and Palos Verdes faults. The 1979 and 1989 earthquakes in Santa Monica Bay do not fit the existing fault models.